How time flies!

Last Saturday night I rounded out six years in Canal Point, and this early Monday morning of this week I started on my seventh year of labor in these parts.

During the years I've been associated with "The Everglades" News at Canal Point and The Belle Glade News at Belle Glade, I've had a lot of fun and fun headaches. I've enjoyed living here on the shore of Lake Okechobee and sincerely hope that six years from today I can say the same thing. I believe I will.

Folks in the Lake Region have been unusually good to me. Business and professional men have turned business up to me. And, for all that I am indebted to them. My only hope is that during years to come I may be able to conduct this newspaper business in such a manner as to warrant a continuance of this splendid patronage.

It was in June, 1937, after working for Knottley-Brown nearly three years, that I decided to leave my job. I had been working for Knottley-Brown in Canal Point and The Belle Glade News at Belle Glade. I had been working for Knottley-Brown in Canal Point and The Belle Glade News at Belle Glade. I had been working for Knottley-Brown in Canal Point and The Belle Glade News at Belle Glade.

In operating a community newspaper it is just as important to learn what to leave out of print as it is to know what to put into print. During the past six years I have written a lot of stuff that never found its way into print. I suppose I will do likewise in years to come.

During the past six years and production of 312 issues of these newspapers I have received many exceptions of eight issues I missed while serving in the state legislature. I had planned to miss eight papers, but I missed eight more in 1937. But Herbert D. Dock in Belle Glade relieved me of that idea.

There is in a certain place every Thursday night that when you turn the page, you find a new small job waiting for you.

During the brief span of time that I've been with Lake Okechobee, I've seen much progress made. I've seen parking houses go up in every section. I've seen new houses built. New business houses erected. New churches built. Highways built and rebuilt. School buildings erected. New homes and smaller ones. Happenings take place that have made of this agricultural area an up-to-date community. I've seen old times pass into the great beyond. I've recorded the births of many youngsters, who, in years to come, will be leaders in this community.

I've lived in many varied communities since childhood. I've earned a living in all these. I've had friends everywhere I chose to live. But, right here in the shore of Lake Okechobee, I've found more people to my liking, more folks who seem to know my way of life, more folks who believe in that advice—live and let live—than anywhere else I've ever lived. I plan to call it home for many years to come, or as many as an All-Wee Creator may deem fitting and proper for this country newspaper editor.

So, my readers, with a deep sense of gratitude for all past favors, I say THANKS for everything and may I continue to serve you in the future.
